to ensure the protection of stray animals, especially cows, oxen and their calves. Sneha's Care, on March 3, had filed a writ petition at the apex court naming the Office of the Prime Minister and Council of Ministers, the Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock Development, and the Department of Livestock Services, among others, as defendants. Sneha Shrestha had demanded an end to the ill-treatment and cruelty towards stray cattle, especially cows and oxen. She had urged the government to protect them from hunger and diseases, and provide them with safe shelters. In her petition, Shrestha had stated the significance of cows by mentioning Article 9(3) of the constitution that regards the cow as the national animal. Further in the writ, she had pointed out how cows, oxen and their calves were abandoned once the cattle stopped giving milk or ploughing the field, and sought mandamus or any other appropriate decree to discourage the trend of abandoning cows and oxen after their utility came to an end. A joint bench of justices Ananda Mohan Bhattarai and Puroshattam Bhandari had issued the mandamus order yesterday, which directed the government to work properly to abide by the law that seeks protection of animals, including the national animal. Flood in Southplain of Nepal - The grant was used to help and rescue the animals with the treatment after the massive flood in Southern Plains of Nepal in collaboration with the Disaster Response team at Rautahat & Saptari District. Our emergency vet care was vital to help reduce suffering for surviving animals, many of whom were starving or injured attributed to the flood. As many as 100,000 households were severely affected while more than 10,000 houses were damaged due to floods that entered human settlements in the Rautahat & Saptari district of Nepal. The grant was used to support the animals that were affected by the flood. Our team arrived at the affected area the very next day of the flood and started the treatment of the animals. Infectious disease outbreaks such as waterborne, rodent-borne, and vector-borne diseases were mainly diagnosed associated with flooding. The animals, including cows, buffalo, goats, pigs, chickens, dogs and cats were brought by the farmers. Many of the animals, we're treating were deeply traumatized and in shock, and a large number had broken limbs and were in extreme pain. We did dressings and treatment for wounded animals; treatment for diarrhoea, pneumonia, and other health disorders, as well as minerals and health supplements, antibiotics, anthelminthic, were distributed in the event. Live Animal Transportation - After several meetings with the stakeholders, Sneha's Care was able to get into the Committee formed by the Livestock Department of Nepal. We are a team of seven in the committee. The members are from Quarantine Office, Livestock Department & Sneha's Care. Our weekly Investigation at the Highways and the entry point of Kathmandu has minimized the suffering of animals. We are in the process of banning the Long Distance Live Animal Transportation.
